

Message from the DVC - Academic, Research and Students Affairs

Prof. Zipporah Ng'ang'a
DVC- ARSA

I congratulate the graduands on their graduation and wishes them God's blessings in the next phase of their lives. The third graduation ceremony of SEKU comprises 823 graduands with 748 undergraduates, 48 masters 26 diplomas and one PhD. The Division thanks all those who have lent a hand in making this occasion a success. We also wish to commend the student community, led by the Student Governing Council, SEKUSA, for their high level of discipline that has enabled the smooth running of the academic calendar.

The student population has grown significantly over the years from 72 at inception to the current 6,686 spread across five campuses. SEKU started with nine academic programmes in 2010. Today, we have 106 programmes. The School of Health Sciences, with an initial admission of 32 students to the Public Health programme has just been launched.

Besides academics, students have been actively involved in campus life, participating in various sports, clubs, societies and organizations. Our sports teams have excelled in various events, while co-curricular activities, such as drama, choir and talent shows have featured prominently in our calendar of events.

"The student population has grown significantly over the years from 72 at inception to the current 6,686 spread across five campuses."