

Abstract

Reviews the rate of the genetic input (i.e breeding and selection) in quality realization in black tea. Discusses introduction/source of tea planting materials, hybridization, clonal selection and development of synthetic varieties by use of non-conventional breeding methods